

Now Hiring Daycare Teachers | Kohl's Child Development Center

Video (1:00)

What I get from working with Kohl's CDC is just a sense of joy.

It's just really rewarding to make those connections with the children along with their families.

As the students are interested in this project or this subject, they're letting the students really drive a lot of that interest and that learning.

We have a management team that is so open to hear us for things that we need.

You have more than your classroom. You have a bike room, you have the playground.

Kohl's does backset onto a lot of nature, so it really lets the children use their imagination.

One thing that we focus on a lot is the ratio. You're never going to be by yourself out of ratio.

Being in childcare it's very physically demanding, so it's nice to have the Wellness Center, the Fitness Center.

We do as much as we can to make people feel inspired and want to stay with us.

I love that my kid is connecting with another human and that it made their day even better, so that just like fills me up.
